

Kontrapunkt Is Looking for an Experienced Digital Designer

We are looking for a conceptually thinking colleague to help us raise the bar when we create digital solutions for some of the largest companies and organisations at home and abroad.

As a Digital Designer you are going to play a central role in our experienced team of designers, strategists and project managers who are dedicated to creating genuine and holistic brands of actual value.

Our approach is interdisciplinary and focuses on all touch points across the brand experience as well as developing digital services and products. You will be included from the initial analysis and first ideas to final deliveries - always focusing on creating meaningful and inspiring results.

Your approach to creative processes is strategically based to unite form and function in unique and relevant brand experiences. You make sure that strategic recommendations are converted into actual solutions across digital platforms and touch points in order to match our customers' specific needs and goals for a positive impact on their business and organisation.

Your profile

You have agency experience working as a lead designer on digital products and services.

You approach tasks and projects systematically.

You are able to convert ideas into great solutions with a strong digital brand design.

You produce and execute meticulously and master UI design system principles as well as micro interaction design.

You are completely aligned with UX/IA practice and the newest UI design methods.

You feel 100% at home in Sketch, Adobe, InVision and preferably Framer and/or After Effects.

You are outgoing, positive and willing to work with a wide variety of people and customers.

You love branding and experience design.

We offer

The possibility to work with and for some of the most inspiring brands in the world.

A varied work day in the company of 65 creative idealists who discuss everything for the design of a 'g' to the rate of bitcoin.

To listen to great ideas and leave room to act on the best ones.

As much care about your development and career as yourself.
